Americans are trapped in a dysfunctional financial model that incessantly chants its mantra: "You can have everything you need and anything you want as long as you have enough credit!"

To this way of thinking "I can afford it" really means you have enough income to make the payments and it shouts that just "having" things proves your wealth and worth. This model makes others wealthy at your expense. It makes bad decisions feel good.

This model is called the Debt Paradigm.

Then, when Debt Paradigm decisions dump you into a dungeon of despair, some "credit repair" guy slithers from the shadows to show you a way out of the darkness of debt and back into the "light" of this failed model - so you can do it all over again.

There is a better way. Money for Life!...(thrive) in good times and bad shows you how to take control of the money that flows through your life and lets you look forward with confidence so you never have to look back with regret.
