This edition has 1217 burial locations covering 44 states and 4 foreign countries from one of the oldest denominations in the United States and covers a vast range of ministers who set the pace for growth and change where they were. In the north this movement were abolitionist and active in the Underground Railroad and began training schools to teach the freeman as they came from the south after the Civil War. They were stronger than the southern group in establishing colleges and active in government. But every territory had its own story to tell. This book will share these messages.
