It was in response to a widely expressed wish, coming from all classes of English people, to possess some authentic record of Princess Mary's life and work, that the family of Her late Royal Highness entrusted me with the duty of preparing the Memoir which I am now permitted to place in the hands of the public. The active interest shown in the undertaking by the Duchess of York and Prince Adolphus of Teck has in no small measure lightened my task. From the commencement they have been ever ready to help and advise, and I respectfully and gratefully acknowledge the valuable aid so graciously rendered. I further take this opportunity of stating that the proof-sheets were carefully perused by the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, the Duchess of York, and Prince Adolphus of Teck. I beg also to tender my respectful thanks to the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar for assistance given me in the preparation of the Memoir. When the book was first contemplated, I had every reason to hope for the co-operation of the Duke of Teck, but the serious illness which succeeded his wife's death, I regret to say, made it impossible for him to take any part in the work he was so anxious to see accomplished.
